Schneider 〰〰 Write it

»People need pens that feel good in the hand…«
Bullet journal blogger Jasmin in an interview with Schneider (p. 10).

Creativity is in demand

Lively lettering, small drawings, patterns and colours… it's time to rediscover everyday creativity. The spectrum ranges from mandalas to do-it-yourself projects, from lovingly designed diaries to carefully laid-out invitations. Small, individual works of art that radiate a certain uniqueness – a personal style.

An ideal range of products

Our wide product range is ideal for those who wish to join this trend. Because for decades, our products have been defined above all by two things: diversity, and suitability for everyday use. The colours alone – like pink, brown and pale blue – are quite special and rather unusual for ball-point pens, as is the range of special tips that are available for writing on surfaces like glass, metal, plastic and wood etc. With our Job text marker, for instance, we have introduced a range of new pastel colours. And our recently launched »Take 4« four-colour ballpoint serves an international demand for a universal solution that is suitable for planning, organising and structuring.

The undisputed No. 1

The ballpoint pen is everybody's favourite everyday writing instrument. And Schneider continues to be the number one ballpoint pen manufacturer in Germany. The GfK market research institute has announced the figures for last year – and the results are clear: As many as six Schneider products are among the top ten listing for ballpoint pens, with the classic K 15 in top place. The list also has models from the popular Slider series near the top. This shows that combining quality with suitability for everyday use is definitely the right strategy.

Made in Germany sells

Another reason for our products' popularity is that the »Made in Germany« seal is one that creates trust, both in Germany and abroad. Besides, it is part of our sustainability strategy.

Demonstrably sustainable

Protecting the environment and its resources is a top priority, especially right now. Our environmental efforts go back two decades: We use 100 % renewable energy sources in our plants, we operate our own solar power plant, and we offer electric bikes instead of company cars, etc. You will find further details on the following pages. It says a lot about what we do that in 1998 we became the first company in our sector to obtain certification in accordance with the stringent EMAS environmental management system and also that we were nominated for the German Sustainability Award 2020. Evidence of our engagement for the environment is meanwhile visible on our products. For instance, production of our entire Slider family is climate-neutral and bears the corresponding certification.

Bio-based and recycling products

We have been supplying pens and pen bodies made of bio-based plastics for several years now. These include our »K 3 Biosafe« and »Slider Xite« products as well as the »Link-It« and »Line-Up« series. Then there are products made of recycled plastic, including many models from the »Maxx« marker series and »Breeze« rollerball series. Not only the latter but also the »Link-It« and »Line-Up« series have been awarded the world-famous Blue Angel environmental ecolabel. And don't forget:
Our royal-blue ink cartridges were rated 'very good' by Stiftung Warentest with reference to pollutants – the only model in the test to do so.

Active and attractive

As you can see: We are doing a lot to make our products practical, environmentally friendly and attractive. We also conduct a number of promotional and social media activities to ensure that people realise this. And as our latest award demonstrates, it is working: this is nothing less than the international Red Dot award – presented for the best brand (Best of the Best). In this way, we also support your work, because you are the most important facilitators and ambassadors of our writing instruments. Which is why I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank you for your contribution. I hope that this catalogue will make for pleasant reading and serve as a rich source of inspiration to you.

Schneider Attracts Attention

We employ a range of measures to support the presence of our brand. We frequently make use of direct opportunities, such as promotional campaigns or trade fairs, where people can try out our writing instruments and see their quality for themselves. We also conduct campaigns to reinforce our image as an ecologically and socially committed organisation.

At the Paperworld – in reality and virtually
Trade fairs represent the classic opportunity for communication through encounter. At the Paperworld in Frankfurt, the biggest leading fair in the world for our sector, we always have an impressive and highly visible stand. Our established design ensures both a high level of recognition and brand presence. We most recently devoted a special area at the entrance to our stand to the theme of sustainability and invited visitors to take part in a virtual tour of the company. Wearing VR goggles, they were able to move around the Schneider world and see many interesting places along the way. In addition, anyone discovering the hashtags that had been hidden throughout the tour had a chance to take part in an attractive competition. And a sweet surprise from the Black Forest awaited everyone who took part.

Let us entertain YOU …
The YOU summer festival in Berlin – with its varied programme and many stars and influencers for young people – proved a great attraction, drawing a total of 42,000 visitors. Our stand with its many activities plus surf simulator, competition and interactive 'fotobox' attracted considerable attention in this inspiring environment. Images from the Schneider fotobox were shared extensively, adding considerable impetus to our brand in the social media channels.

Run on the Schneider-Run
The Schneider-Run was held for the fourth time in July of last year. Once again, the event proved to be a great attraction for runners and spectators alike, with a total of 550 participants making their way to the starting line. This number included many youngsters, resulting in an overall age range of 2 to 70 years.
In addition to the run, Schneider also once again brought along its popular surf simulator, not to mention a bungee run and a bouncy castle for the youngest visitors. The revenues from the entrance fees are traditionally donated to a charitable organisation; this year, it was the Katharinenhöhe rehabilitation clinic.

Schneider on tour at full power
Last year we also mingled directly among users of our writing instruments – after all, the best publicity for our products is the writing experience itself. We visited a number of German universities with our Link-It series, and the students there were very impressed with our combinable pen systems. Each of them was able to choose two Link-Its of their choice and assemble their own personal favourite pen. (Images, top row) We also put on a series of broad-based retail activities, designed to bring our writing instruments closer to the people.

We maintained a similar level of activity in France, where we attended the country's biggest student festival, the Delta in Marseille. We also visited twelve universities and start-up hubs while we were there. Our »The Wall« installation (images below) served as a fitting eye catcher that also motivated visitors to try out the products for themselves.

As just a few examples of our many activities: We conducted a high-visibility campaign in Poland for our One rollerball, which in addition to the media presence, featured another special aspect: Visitors had a chance to send in their writing samples to be assessed by a graphologist and assigned to certain personality types. We also had a campaign with the motto of »Draw your Freedom!« which took place at the »Lucca Festival« in Italy, the biggest comic event in Europe.

We Care: Our Environmental Involvement at a Glance

For more than twenty years, we have been gradually improving the environmental compatibility of our products and work processes.

Close to our heart
The various measures and developments that are aimed not only at protecting the environment and maintaining sustainable production but also acting with responsibility for society can be summed up in two words: »We Care«. This extends from providing e-bikes for employees and operating our own photovoltaic power system to our intelligent refilling systems and the use of recycled paper in our packaging materials. All of this stems from our conviction that it is our job to do all we can to preserve the planet on which we live. This is not just a matter of the head but also, and above all, a matter of the heart.
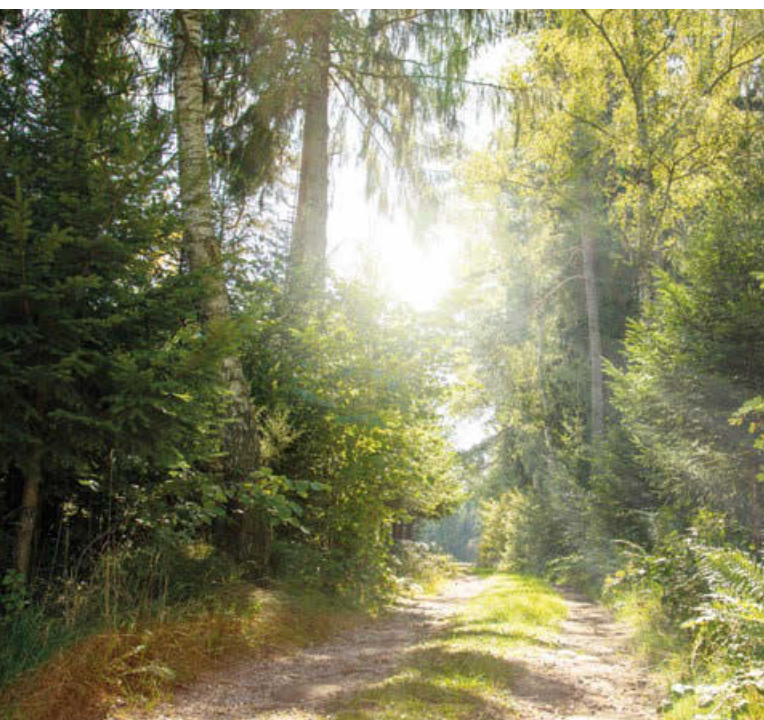

The Black Forest and the Harz – dedicated to our homeland
»Where others spend their holiday is our workplace« – we are very aware that our production facilities are located in the Black Forest and the Harz, two of Germany's most beautiful natural landscapes, and this makes us all the more sensitive to the need for sustainable activity and environmental protection. It is not merely out of reasoning that we feel responsible for our production processes' sustainability – our motivation is strengthened on a daily basis every time we look out of the window.

»You could say that environmental protection is in our genes.«

We Care

We Care: Environment and responsibility are matters we hold close to our heart.

Continuous improvement: You can always be greener

It was very early on that we began paying attention to ensuring that our processes are friendly to both resources and the environment – at a time when many still sneered at the idea. Our first certification in accordance with the EMAS environmental management system, which is the most stringent in the world, was awarded in 1998, and it has been consistently renewed ever since. But this is not all.

Step by step, we have undertaken constant further developments and improvements, with the certificates and symbols shown here representing only a fraction of our milestones.

EMAS
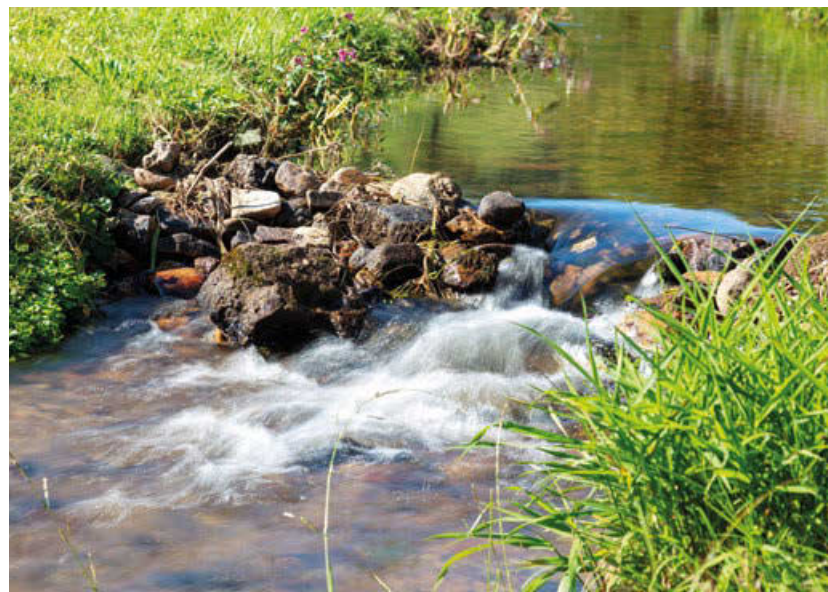

Our »Breeze« rollerball was the first writing instrument ever to be awarded the Blue Angel, followed by our »Line-Up« and »Link-It« products.

100 % renewable energies

For us there is no question: We use electricity generated solely by hydroelectric power and using renewable energy forms.

CO2 neutral

Many of our products are manufactured using climate-neutral production techniques.

85% Recycling

We return 85% of the manufacturing waste from our facilities directly into the production process.

Recycling – Sustainability through recycling of materials

Using recycled plastic to manufacture new products is an effective way of protecting our environment. This is not as simple as it sounds, because it is not possible to use just any recycled plastic to produce high-quality writing instruments.

We have devoted a great deal of attention to obtaining suitable sources of materials from which we can then manufacture new pen bodies.

Our recycled plastics are either of a commercial (post-industrial) origin or they come from plastic waste from private households (post-consumer).

We operate a system of honest recycling, which can also be declared as »genuine recycling« in accordance with the DIN EN ISO 14021 standard. And we provide proof: The recycled content of the material used is confirmed by independent certification bodies.

Plastic – Ways to Sustainability

Bio-based plastic – protecting finite resources

Bio-based plastics are made from renewable raw materials such as corn starch, cane or beet sugar, or cellulose from cotton or wood. These substances form the basis of the bio-based granulates that we use to produce pen bodies and other plastic parts. This minimises the use of fossil fuels and reduces CO_2 emissions in comparison with conventional, oil-based plastics. And by the way: It only requires 0.1% of the world's agriculturally usable land to cover the total world demand. This means that the cultivation of food crops is virtually unaffected.[1]

We offer strong products and genuine alternatives that enable sustainable purchases with our K3 Biosafe and Slider Xite ballpoints, as well as our Link-It series and Line-Up fineliners. Other models will follow soon.

[1] The worldwide production volume of bio-based plastics is estimated at 6 million tonnes (2017). To grow the necessary raw materials requires less than 0.1% of the world's agriculturally usable land. H.-J. Endres, Hochschule Hannover IfBB – Institute for Bioplastics and Biocomposites

Our Recycling Pioneers

A new generation of writing instruments with a 95% proportion of recyclate... but just a moment! Don't we know some of them already? Correct. Many of our popular and established »Maxx« markers are now being serially produced from recycled material. Just like before – with the same design, the same high quality, and at no additional cost to the consumer. Indeed, by buying our products, consumers are contributing to environmental protection and resource-friendly behaviour, without having to pay more.

The »Take 4« four-colour ballpoint pen with its pen body made of 92% recycled plastic and free of harmful substances is celebrating a genuine premiere. The »Take 4« combines sustainability, technology, quality and suitability for everyday use and underscores our position as the market leader in the ballpoint pen sector.

Inspiration, Passion, and Everyday Life – An Interview with Bullet Journal Blogger, Jasmin.

Schneider: Let us start with a somewhat banal question: What does a bullet journal blogger do? And how did you get started in journaling?

Jasmin: I began as a blogger in 2006, and my online diary at that time was largely for my own use and as a digital portfolio. The subjects I write about have generally followed my own personal interests, which has led me from fashion to lifestyle and themes like mindfulness. Creativity and journaling are an important and integral part of my everyday life. It was after I shared a few photos of my planner online that a publishing company became interested in me, and this led to me writing a book on the subject.
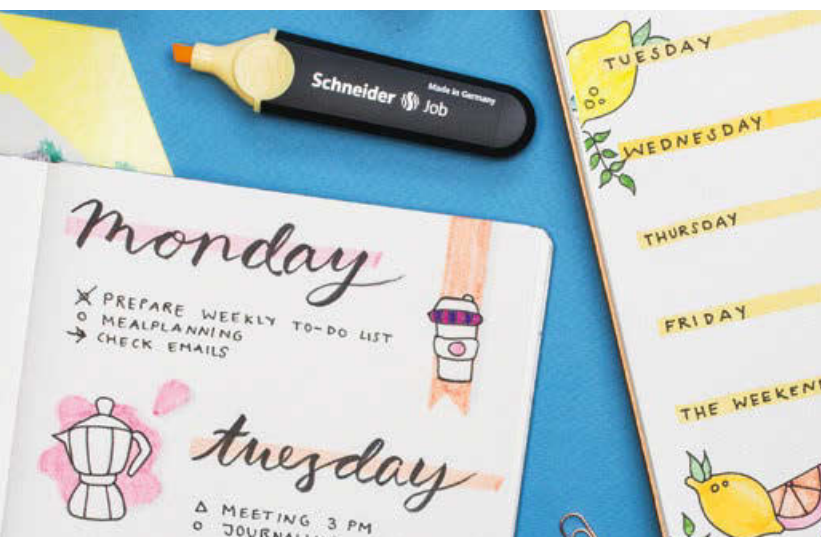

Schneider: Can you make a living from it? What else do you do?

Jasmin: I have been self-employed for the last five years and work as an author and photographer in London. My current focus is on my own channels and content, but I do occasionally produce things for other brands and organisations. I am also starting to think about my third book, which deals more intensively with the subject of happiness and positive lifestyle.

Schneider: What for you is a 'normal' day?

Jasmin: Every day is different and new! But people do tend to romanticise self-employed life and working as a blogger. One thing I can tell you is that I spend a great deal of time sitting at a computer. I share my wonderful studio in Brixton with two fantastic illustrators, and the highlights of my day are the creative hours. What I enjoy the most are taking part in photographic productions and working with light and props.

Schneider: How important is your choice of writing instruments in what you do? Were you aware of Schneider before this interview?

Jasmin: On a private level, I like to work with a maximum of two or three pens in my planner. I have known Schneider since I was at school, and I even used the black fineliner to fill out my very first bullet journal. What I appreciate about Schneider, besides its great quality and product diversity, is its green brand core and its social commitment. It just captivates me.

Schneider: Are there any tips that you can give to young people wishing to take up journaling?

Jasmin: Bullet journaling is suitable for anyone. There is no right or wrong way to do it. Journaling is whatever you choose to make it. What you need is a pen, one that feels good to hold, and an empty planner, and that is it. You have to find out what works for you, what furthers your productivity, and of course how much time you can spend on planning etc. in your everyday life. Bullet journaling can be extremely minimalist or it can be super-creative. It can be summed up as learning by doing.

Schneider: Is our society rediscovering creativity?

Jasmin: The inexorable rise of digitalisation increases our yearning for some peace and quiet, to stand still and maybe not even be available for a while. An analogue hobby is ideal. It doesn't have to be journaling – there are plenty of other creative passions, such as Zentangle, handicrafts, etc. that are again becoming popular and are seen as modern. I personally think it is fantastic, and I enjoy the simplicity and beauty of relieving stress this way. You really have to try it out!

Fountain Pens

Do we still need fountain pens in a digital world? Of course we do. They continue to be the number one writing instrument in schools, beginning with primary school, which is why we still offer a range of models and variants to suit different age groups and preferences. But it isn't just while you are learning to read and write that you need a fountain pen – more and more older pupils and adults are rediscovering the fountain pen, as the trend returns to writing by hand. It is much easier to learn something by writing it down than it is by entering it digitally into the computer, the smartphone etc. Moreover, handwritten notes and messages are expressions of individuality and personal estimation.

Rollerballs

Rollerballs are conquering the world of writing instruments. They combine the pleasant writing sensation of liquid ink with the practical handling of a ballpoint pen. Many models can be refilled with cartridges – some even have erasable ink! For writing beginners, there is the Base Senso. A rollerball with warning light at the end of the pen which indicates when too much writing pressure is being applied. Even writing experts enjoy the ergonomic grip zones that make it easier to achieve clean and attractive handwriting. Schneider offers many different models with trend colours or the latest colour combinations which are perfect for school. By the way, our Breeze rollerball is the first writing instrument ever to be awarded the best-known ecolabel in the world – the Blue Angel.

Fineliners and Fibrepens

This product area calls for variety – and we provide it! Our Line-Up fineliner model is available in 30 colours, and the effect is even more colourful with Link-It, which allows the user to combine two colours and tip types in any way imaginable – with up to 900 possible combinations. Both models are the first of their kind in the world to be made from biobased plastic, and not only that, they have also been awarded the world's best known ecolabel, the Blue Angel, for their environment and resource friendly production. The portfolio is rounded off by our popular Fineliner Xpress and Topliner as well as the fibrepens in the Topwriter series.

Markers

In addition to the design award-winning Job highlighter model, which is now available in a total of six additional pastel colours, we also offer a number of elegant variants in a slim shape of a pen, such as the One Highlighter or the Link-It, which can be combined with other writing systems. The marker segment places the emphasis on functional diversity, an aspect that is emphasised more in our product range than just about anywhere else. Whether you are looking for permanent markers with a wide choice of tip sizes and colours, combined markers for whiteboards and flipcharts, or special purpose pens, such as paint markers, chalk markers, CD, DVD and Bluray markers, film pens, laundry markers, money checkers, or our latest innovation, a marker for use on modern glassboards. Our markers are ideal for writing on all common surfaces.

We have always been of the opinion that when something is good, it can be made even better. For the benefit of our environment. Which is why we now make the bodies of our Maxx 130 / 133 / 250 permanent markers, Maxx 110 / 290 / 293 whiteboard/flipchart markers and Maxx 115 round highlighters from 95% recycled plastic. In serial production. With no additional costs. And with the same consistently high product quality!

This overview provides a rough collection of properties and applications of our markers. In individual cases we cannot guarantee the accuracy of promised features, since many of the technical parameters are beyond our control. For special applications that do not meet the standard according to usage (eg office, school, home, hobby), please ask for the most appropriate solution. In principle, for a good grip on (smooth) surfaces, a clean dry surface is necessary.

SYNERGIES SINCE 2016

Since the first successful release of our joint product – the MOLOTOW™ Blackliner, the cooperation between Schneider and MOLOTOW™ has developed rapidly. The Blackliner range with its 11 different line thicknesses and indelible water-based ink has developed into a bestseller.

The trend is towards do-it-yourself, and creative work is meanwhile no longer the sole domain of experienced artists. This creates a demand for high-quality and safe products, preferably produced in Germany. We are already working on further innovative and sustainable product concepts that will be setting new standards in the PBS sector.

MOLOTOW™ offers suitable concepts for classic retailers, with new stimuli and future prospects. The trend in distribution has also continued to be positive. Innovative new products like the Aqua Color Brush marker in meanwhile 36 colours are sure to raise the pulse rates of our most creative customers.
